INCIDENTS OF THE STRIKE.

Bishop Hortsmann Issues a Manifesto in Interest of Order.

LABOR TROUBLES ELSEWHERE.

The Strike of the Messenger Boys at Cincinnati Proves Troublesome and Newsboys Join the Movement. Police Are Compelled to Repress the Idlers.

Cleveland, July 25.—After a night marked by disorder and rioting cars on all the various lines of the Big Consolidated system were started out on schedule time.

Beyond the usual obstructions of stones, bricks and all kinds of rubbish placed on the tracks in the outlying districts during the latter part of the night there was no interruption to traffic during the early hours of the day.

Mayor Farley was informed at midnight by Adjutant General Axline that troops to the number of 1,000 men would arrive in Cleveland before the day to assist the local authorities in maintaining order.

The carrying of arms by the non-union men has given rise to a curious situation at the line which separates Cleveland from South Brooklyn, a small independent municipality on the south side of the river. The street car crews are allowed in the city to array themselves like walking arsenals, but across the border the mayor of Brooklyn, assisted by the town marshal and the constabulary, has taken steps which guard that suburb from armed invasion. The officers searched the crews of every car which came across the bridge, but found nothing. The men had taken the precaution to leave their revolvers on the Cleveland side. On the return trip they again take possession of their weapons.

The resolutions adopted at the Newburg mass meeting protest against the carrying of arms by the street car employees, pointing out that the presence of the military is ample protection to the men.

Ralph B. Hawley, the non-union motorman who shot and killed Henry Cornwell on Perry street was arraigned in police court on the charge of second degree murder. He will be given a preliminary hearing next Tuesday.

The four Columbus militia companies, together with the military organizations from Newark, Delaware and Chillicothe, 600 strong, arrived here to re-inforce the soldiers already on guard. Adjutant General Axline will be in general command.

Mayor Farley refuses to say whether or not he would order the non-union street railway employees to relinquish their arms. He reiterated his statement that he would keep the city free from rioting and violence if it took every soldier in the state to do it.

The Right Rev. Ignatius F. Horstmann, of the diocese of Cleveland, issued an address to the Catholic laity of the city, in which he calls upon the people to offer no resistance to the authorities and tells them to pray that peace and quiet may be restored.

The address epitomizes the situation as follows: "Anarchy reigns. Riot prevails. The civil authority is dead and openly resisted. The fair name of our city as a law-abiding community is in danger. Business has been paralyzed. Visitors fear to enter our portals. Our own citizens are in constant danger of their lives.

President Harry A. Bryan issued a statement on behalf of the strikers' union, disclaiming any part in the recent riots and expressing the resolution of refraining from such acts.

Coincident in Dates.

Columbus, O., July 25.—Just a year ago Tuesday the Fourth Ohio volunteer infantry arrived at Newport News, Va., to take the cruiser St. Paul for Porto Rico. At 10 a. m. they took cars for Cleveland to help settle the great street railway strike there. This time they went as the newly organized Fourth Ohio National Guard.

Parade of Messengers.

New York, July 25.—The messenger boys' strike continued with the ranks of the strikers augmented by boys from the force of the American District Telegraph company. A large number of the Postal Telegraph messengers—nearly all employed in the banking district—are still out and during the morning they paraded the down-town district seeking to prevent boys from taking the places of the strikers. The feature of the morning as the failure to return to work of more than half of the 125 boys employed at 4 Exchange court on Exchange place, the principal banking district of the American District Telegraph company.

Trouble at Cincinnati.

Cincinnati, July 25.—The strike of messenger boys that began last Saturday has reached serious conditions. Idlers surround the telegraph and district offices and intercept the new messengers in different parts of the city. The messengers were sent out in cars with a policeman accompanying each driver, but stones and missiles were thrown at the vehicles the same as at those taking street cars. Many of the messengers have been seriously hurt. Two have been stabbed. The newsboys joined the strike of the messenger boys. Great mobs of hoodlums surround the newspaper offices and refuse to allow the boys to go out with papers. The papers are torn up and destroyed as fast as they are turned over to the news boys and in some instances the news boys are treated roughly. The mobs from all parts of the city have gathered in such large numbers that the police seem unable to disperse them with clubs and the use of more effective weapons is contemplated.

Confined to Pennsylvania Men.

New York, July 25.—At a meeting of the striking freight handlers of the Pennsylvania railroad piers on North river it was agreed that of the demands of the men for an increase of wages from 17 cents to 20 cents per hour were not complied with, the strikers now out will be joined by the 1,000 freight handlers employed by the Pennsylvania company in Jersey City. It was decided that the strike be confined to the Pennsylvania company as it was thought that by crippling its freight service it would give in rather than see its business go to rival lines.

Strike Is Spreading.

New York, July 25.—The strike of the tailors is hourly spreading and the men in less than 100 shops in the borough of Manhattan are at work. The strike committee is making the rounds of these places to get the men out. In addition to the demands for increased pay and less hours of labor the strikers say that they have a fight against the professional leaders who, they claim, run the Socialist Trade and Labor alliance. A careful estimate places the total number of tailors now on strike in Greater New York at nearly 10,000.

No Progress Toward Settlement.

Cleveland, July 25.—A committee from the striking ore-handlers at Ashtabula had a conference with L. C. Hanna of M. A. Hanna & company, but no progress was made toward the settlement of the strike which threatens to tie up all the great ore docks of Lake Erie. Much had been expected from the conference.

Will Not Believe Otis.

Washington, July 25.—The president has no intention of relieving General Otis from the military command in the Philippines. He had seriously thought at one time of assigning an officer of high rank to command the forces in the field, leaving General Otis to perform the administrative government of the governor general. The president had two propositions before him, one to make Lawton the commanding officer of the fighting forces and the other to send Merritt back to his old place. The latter assignment would mean the subordination of General Otis as governor general to General Merritt who outranks him by regular as well as volunteer title. Both these ideas have now been abandoned.

Will Conspire Dewey's Wishes.

Washington, July 25.—There is much gossip in naval circles respecting the duty to which Admiral Dewey will be assigned upon his arrival in this country. Secretary Long positively declares that the post has not yet been selected and that a decision will be made only when he has had an opportunity to consult with Admiral Dewey and has learned his wishes. There is apparently no doubt, however, that the admiral will be stationed at the head of a strong board, possibly the board of inspection and survey, whose duties will be enlarged so as to take in questions of policy relating to ship construction.

Yellow Fever Under Control.

Washington, July 25.—A dispatch has been received from General Brooke saying that General Wood reports that they have the yellow fever situation under control at Santiago.

Wages Advanced.

Huntington, W. Va., July 25.—Car builders at the American Car and Foundry company were granted an increase in wages amounting to $3 on each car.

CRITICISM OF ECKELS.

On Monetary Attitude of Both the Great Political Parties.

HE POINTS OUT A DANGER.

To Adhere to the Prevailing Sentiment That the Money Problem Has Solved Itself Would Be a Mistake for Administration.

New York, July 25.—James H. Eckels, ex-comptroller of the currency, says in an interview: "I think it more than likely that the senate finance committee will agree on something in the way of monetary legislation, though it will be far from radical. When it comes to a finality it may be nothing more than a half-hearted declaration for the maintenance of the two metals at a parity; the interchangeability of greenbacks for gold and vice versa and the enlargement of banknote circulation based on bonds. The president thus far has had his party well in hand, and if he takes hold in dead earnest ought to be able to get something of real value on the subject out of congress. There is, however, danger of the feeling prevailing that the money problem has already solved itself and nothing further is needed. Such a course would be a serious mistake and one the administration would ultimately suffer from."

"It is unfortunate for the country that the Democratic party is in such an utterly demoralized condition. This condition has made the Republican leaders indifferent to much public sentiment that would have proved effective in both preventing new and remedying old wrongs if the opposition had a leadership which commanded public confidence and a following made up less of the elements of discontent. The strength of the Republican party is largely, if not wholly, in the weakness of the Democrats.

"Such a condition of affairs cannot but be bad for the public good. It places the voter in the embarrassing position of being compelled to make a choice between a party made up wholly of radicals promising to do only the things which would disturb the country's prosperity and one containing many conservatives, but led wholly by political leaders who consider the advancement of party the first essential in the discharge of public duty.

"The Republican party ought, with the advantage possessed by it, to give the country a thoroughly sound and complete monetary system. It ought to advance the civil service."

Monroe Doctrine Protected.

The Hague, July 25.—An arrangement has been agreed to with regard to the objection raised by the American delegation to the international peace conference to the use of the word "duty" in article 27 of the general act in a way that would imply any obligation on the part of the United States to intercede in disputes between European governments and vice versa. The word "duty" is retained, but on the motion of the American delegation definitive declaration is asserted that nothing in the arbitration convention shall impose an obligation upon the United States to interfere in European affairs or vice versa. This arrangement will be presented to the plenary conference. It has been decided that the various conventions shall remain open for signature by the several powers until December 31, 1899.

Large Attendance Expected.

Pittsburg, July 25.—Ten thousand delegates are expected to attend the tenth anniversary convention of the Young People's Christian Union of the United Presbyterian church which will be held at the Duquesne garden in this city next week. The convention will open on the evening of August 2 and will be in session probably a week. Among the prominent speakers will be Rev. Dr. Burrell, of New York, Rev. Dr. Dixon, of New York, Rev. Dr. J. A. Henderson, of Sparta, Ill., Rev. Dr. W. G. Moorehead, of Zenia, O., Rev. Dr. S. F. Scovell, of Wooster, O., Miss Anna S. Harlow, of Philadelphia, and Miss Margaret Leitch, a Ceylon missionary.

Are Poisoned Meat.

Decatur, Ind., July 25.—One member of John Burke's family is dead and Mrs. Burke and an 8-year-old son are dying from having eaten poisoned meat. Mr. Burke and a 6-year-old daughter did not eat the meat and they escaped sickness. It was a 4-year-old son who died. How the meat became poisoned is not known.

Double Page.

Kenova, W. Va., July 25.—Jesse Adams, 30, living on Tug river, killed his wife, aged 24, then killed himself. Jealousy is the cause.

SECRETARY ALGER

Attends Cabinet Meeting and Turns Over Matters to Melkjohn.

Washington, July 25.—Secretary Alger attended the meeting of the cabinet, but had no special war department business to submit. Later the secretary left Washington to be absent until August 1, the date when his resignation takes effect. Mr. Melkjohn will be acting secretary until that time. Mr. Root, the new secretary, called at the war department and was with the secretary some time discussing matters relating to the department.

Assistant Secretary Melkjohn called upon Mr. Root at the Arlington and again met him in the office of the secretary. It was expected that the bureau chiefs of the war department would meet Mr. Root, but at his suggestion the meeting was deferred until he actually became secretary. Mr. Root's commission has already been made out for August 1.

The features of the cabinet meeting were the farewell of Secretary Alger and the presentation of his successor, Mr. Root. Half an hour after the cabinet had assembled Mr. Root appeared at the White House. He was immediately admitted and was formally presented to those of his new colleagues whom he had not met. His greeting was pleasant and cordial. He remained but a few minutes, leaving shortly after noon to catch the 12:45 train for New York.

An English View.

London, July 25.—All the morning papers devote editorials to the closing of the international peace conference at The Hague and note with satisfaction the progress made in the direction of arbitration, which cheapened by the institution of a permanent court, will tend to a more wide resort to arbitration in minor disputes, and if successful, will accustom the powers to its gradual extension to more serious matters. In other respects, they declare, the conference achieved little.

Railway Employees' Denial.

Peoria, Ills., July 25.—President Powell of the Order of Railway Telegraphers denied the story that the recent meeting of the executive officers of the telegraphers, trainmen, firemen and conductors at Cedar Rapids was held for the purpose of declaring a strike on the Boston and Albany road, which report has been published in the eastern papers. The meeting was held to map out the legislative work for the coming year.

Proposed Cuban Census.

Washington, July 25.—Senor Quesada and Mr. Horatio S. Rubens had a conference with the president concerning the proposed census of Cuba. They arranged for a visit to Washington next week on the part of the officials who are to make the enumeration of the Cuban people. They will then confer with Census Director Merriam and Senor Quesada on the methods to be pursued.

Two More Captured.

Bainbridge, Ga., July 25.—The score and more of posses that have been searching the woods and swamps of the Wiregrass district ever since last Friday for the outragers of Mrs. J. E. Ogletree at Safoold have, according to the best information, lynched three negroes and caught two more, who will probably be put to death. A negro is reported to have been shot Monday night.

Kruger Has Not Resigned.

Pretoria, July 25.—The absence of President Kruger from the meeting of the executive council gave currency to a report that he had resigned, owing to differences between himself and members of the volksraad. President Kruger, in regard to the matter, denied these rumors, stating positively that they were without foundation.

Negro Shot Several Hundred Times.

Hattiesburg, Miss., July 25.—Henry Novels, a negro, attempted to assault Miss Rosaline Davis, Saturday. He was captured near Bond, Miss., and brought back to the scene of his crime and immediately identified by the young lady. A crowd numbering over 300 men escorted him to a tree near by to which he was hung and shot at several hundred times.

No Decision Reached.

New York, July 25.—Bartow S. Weeks appeared before Judge Richard in the court of general sessions and argued a motion to inspect the grand jury's minutes in the case of Roland B. Molineux, indicted for the murder of Mrs. Katharine J. Adams. The motion was opposed by Assistant District Attorney Osborne. Decision was reserved.

Funeral of Czarowitz.

St. Petersburg, July 25.—The funeral of the czarowitz will take place at 10:30 a. m. Wednesday. A wreath of flowers sent by the French government and a silver wreath from President Loubet, of France, were laid upon the coffin of the dead prince.

THE PADRONE SYSTEM

Is Explained by Assistant Commissioner of Immigration.

ITALIANS SEEM TO LIKE IT.

Labrers Come to This Country Under the Employment of Bankers Who Handle Their Money and Send Savings Home.

New York, July 25.—The hearing of the sub-committee of the United States industrial commission, which is inquiring into the workings of the immigration laws at this port was resumed. The examination of Assistant Commissioner of Immigration Edward F. McSweeney was continued. Chairman Ellison A. Smythe questioned the witness regarding the existence of the padrone system in this country.

"If by the Padron system," said Mr. McSweeney, "is meant that immigrants are controlled by certain bankers after they come here; that the commissariat is regulated by these men; that the money of the immigrant is sent back to Italy by these bankers, if that is what we consider the Padron system, it still exists. The system reputed to have been obtained years ago whereby the bankers induced these men to come here, I do not think any longer exists, because there is no need for it. They now come of their own accord. Before they come, they know that by going to a certain banker they will find employment. My impression is that the Italian immigrants prefer to be under the control of the padrone."

"What other races besides the Italians and Orientals are held in industrial bondage?" asked the chairman.

"There was a species of labor-selling prevalent in New York for a long time, but I believe it was suppressed under Commissioners Renner and Fitchie. There were Austrian girls who were taken into families and kept there at nominal wages for years."

Mr. McSweeney said that while the girls were not brought here for immoral purposes, many became outcasts owing to their harsh treatment. He said that many such girls were living in New York, according to the police.

The assistant commissioner said that during the Spanish-American war the Italian cabinet had issued a circular saying that business here was suspended and instructed the police to curtail as much as possible the granting of passports to prospective immigrants.

Mr. McSweeney was questioned at length in regard to Mormon immigration. He said that probably 95 per cent of the new arrivals were women. They all came over in charge of an elder. They all claim to be Latter Day saints and declare with a great deal of force that they intend to obey the laws of the United States.

Regarding the exclusion of immigrants he said that the 13 per cent of the new arrivals or 25,000 persons examined by the special board of inquiry, 10 per cent, were excluded.

Mr. McSweeney made a long statement regarding a complaint that Hebrews were not properly classified. He said the great thing was to classify the immigrants industrially and that asking their religion was a means to that end.

Resumed With Colored Puddlers.

Pittsburg, July 25.—The puddling department at the Aetna mill of Spang, Chalfant & company, which has been shut down since July 1, on account of strike of puddlers, resumed with colored workmen. The strikers were not expecting the negroes and there was no trouble when they were taken into the mill. Further difficulties are looked for as the finishers have threatened to quit work if black men were imported and another strike may follow.

Struck by a Cyclone.

Laporte, Ind., July 25.—A cyclone struck the eastern portion of this city and wrecked the boot and shoe stores of Butterworth & company. It leveled other buildings to the east of the city and it is feared that the families of Jacob Morton and William Steel, who live on the Kankakee, have been killed. Their houses have been wrecked, but it is not known whether they were in the buildings when the cyclone struck them.

Date of Cremation.

New York, July 25.—It was decided by Mrs. Robert G. Ingersoll and her daughters that the cremation of Mr. Ingersoll's body would be postponed until Thursday. The funeral ceremonies were private.

WEATHER FORECAST FOR KENTUCKY—Threatening Wednesday, with showers in eastern portion; probably clearing in the afternoon; generally fair Thursday; warmer Wednesday, except stationary temperature in extreme western portions; variable winds.

THE anti-Goebel Democrats talk of nominating Hon. John Young Brown as a candidate for Governor. His friends would be greatly surprised if he should lend himself to any such a scheme.

WEEKLY CROP BULLETIN.

The Drouth Pretty Well Broken and the Outlook Is Much Brighter Now.

The drouth which was becoming quite serious has been pretty thoroughly broken by showers during the latter part of the past week. In some sections the rain was very heavy and nearly all parts of the State have been favored with abundant rains. There are, however, some localities still needing more rain.

All vegetation shows great improvement. Early corn was permanently injured in some sections, but that planted later is improving rapidly. Tobacco is improving very rapidly, and the outlook for both these crops is much more satisfactory. Pastures, gardens and potatoes are improving.

Threshing of wheat and harvesting of oats are about completed. The former reports of a very poor wheat crop are confirmed. Oats are reported to be a fair crop generally.

HIGHER CRITICS.

Their Fallacies and Errors Laid Bare by Profound Orientals.

A Recent Important Discovery Refuting the Legendary Theory of Certain Writers.

[Correspondence of BULLETIN.]

ROME, July 12th, 1899.

In the beginning of the century a tendency obtained in certain schools to relegated to the domain of mythology events recorded in the ancient documents of the past, condemning all received notions on the subject in order to substitute fanciful theories of a modern type. This tendency wrought into a system of high-sounding principles led in some cases to the arbitrary formation of canons which were given to the world under the name of "higher criticism."

The newly discovered criterions of infallibility affected the Bible, and in the judgment of some the inspired books, having been weighed, were found wanting. The iconoclastic warfare initiated by the University of Tubingen frightened souls of little faith. To more enlightened minds these theories and the conclusions drawn made but a slight impression. A great reaction soon took place, and the studies of profound Orientalists laid bare the fallacies and errors of a system based on ingenious and withal untenable arguments. The results of researches scrupulously made and scientifically carried on by scholars in the branches of Egyptology and Assyriology luminously confirmed the truth of the sacred records. Threadbare objections often refuted were most assiduously repeated by shoddy personalities with the monotony of veritable cuckoos. The comic side of the performance appeared in the fact that these poor echoes incapable even of copying well the elucidations of second-hand writers got hopelessly mixed up. Owing either to bad translations or to their inability to understand the trend of nebulous arguments they made assertions that superinduced a sense of good humour, and facilitated the process of a good digestion. The reading of the eneiform inscriptions following the deciphering of the Rosetta Stone opened a new page in biblical studies. The work of the spade on the banks of the Euphrates and the Tigris is still going on, bringing to light every day new proofs to substantiate the narration of the Old Testament.

The legendary theory had also to be applied to history by students looking at the past through the same green spectacles. Niehr and Mommsen flatly denied the authenticity of early Roman annals. According to them the regal period of Rome, which Livius and Tacitus made to last 215 years, is a mere fable. No discrimination whatever is made between the story of the Trojan descent and the actual fact that some Kings must have ruled over the primitive tribes of the Palatine. We are told that all those personages never existed except in the fertile brain of poets or on the pages of credulous historians. Of the subsequent republican period nothing can be known with certainty, because down to the first or even the second Punic War legends had falsified the real course of events. Recent discoveries made by illustrious men, fully equipped for the task, have given a rude shock to the conclusions of the mythological school on this point. The early history of Rome is now being vindicated by the pen of the scholar and the spade of the archaeologist.

The present Italian Secretary of Public Instruction, the world-famous Baccelli, continues the work of excavation in the Roman Forum with the same vigor and intelligent method displayed by his predecessors. The spot which seemed to have given up all the memories that still remained of Latin history has undergone a great transformation of late. A new leaf has been turned in that marble book for centuries sealed to human eyes. Precious relics, dug out here and there from classic ground, have seen the light of the day, illustrating doubtful events and solving mighty problems. In antiquity and historic value not one of them surpasses the importance of a slab with an archaic inscription.

It was a large crowd at the Elks' yesterday afternoon when the professor got ready for his ascension. To see the balloon fill with hot air was an instruction to the people and they wanted to learn things. They saw the gauzy silk fill with the fumes which ascended from the hole in the ground, where countless barrel staves were burning; they saw the silken beauty float giddily aloft; they saw it soar skyward with the intrepid professor hanging on to the trapeze below the parachute, below the balloon. Up, up she went, while the spectators held their breath and assured themselves that they were not the least bit in the world excited and that balloon ascensions were all in a lifetime.

Up, up she went, while the spectators held their breath and assured themselves that they were not the least bit in the world excited and that balloon ascensions were all in a lifetime.

Presently the professor cut the rope which held the parachute to the balloon. The spectators couldn't see him do it. He was but a speck. But they saw him drop—drop like a stone. Presently the parachute opened and the drop was retarded. The parachute was still descending, but not at the great rate of speed first noticeable. The professor "did his little bit" on the trapeze, tricks of the horizontal bar and the flying trapeze, as the parachute came earthward.

The parachute was making toward Beech street and Allegheny avenue, and finally stuck on the steeple of the Calvary M. E. Church.

There was great excitement in the neighborhood and quite a number of people ran for the hook and ladder company.

The professor was the only man who did not appear to be worrying. He sat on his unstable perch and shouted instructions to the crowd below. From his pocket he took a string which he lowered.

By the string he hoisted up a rope which he made fast on the cornice of the steeple, and aud by which he descended to the ground.

"It was this way," said the professor. "I always make it a point to see that there is an open space below me before I cut the rope. I did that to-day. Where I made my mistake was in allowing myself to go up too high. I dropped, with my head downward, hanging on my heels, then did my little acrobatic business and caught hold of the bar ready to make the rest of the descent feet downward. And then it was I realized the error I had made in going up too high. The wind blew me against the steeple. I thought I could slide down the side, but there were too many blunted stones sticking out. But I got down all right."

Only that and nothing more. It never seemed to occur to him that he had just been risking his life while trying to rescue the parachute. It was all in the day's work, and not worth mentioning. It was business.

M. C. RUSSELL & SON received this week a car load of Schifendacker's cement direct from Germany.

of their conclusions impartially based on the strict canons of modern scientific research. Controversy when carried on in the proper spirit by men sincerely in quest of truth always ends by shedding more light on the question under debate. Facts are stubborn things, and arguments not born of prejudices must bow before them. The importance of the discovery appears when the great antiquity of the slab is taken into consideration, for it belongs to sixth or seventh-century before the Christian era. It confirms the testimony of Titus Livius and Cornelius Tacitus concerning the existence of various kings previous to the Republican period inaugurated in the year 509 from the foundation of Rome. The above mentioned historians flourished respectively in the first and second century after Christ, at a distance of hundreds of years from the date of the inscription. This unanimity of statements is calculated to chill the ardor of the dogmatic disciples of Niehr and Mommsen in superciliously relegating the historic personalities of all the early kings of Rome to the realms of mythology.

PROF. JACK CASSELL,

The Well Known and Daring Balloonist, Has a Thrilling Experience at Allegheny, Pa.

[Pittsburgh Post, July 23.]

Fell on a church steeple, remained there suspended in mid air fifteen minutes and escaped without a scratch! Such was the fear, the predicament and the condition of Jack Cassell, the "only man who makes his leap for life from a balloon with a parachute while hanging by his heels, head foremost, from a trapeze, making a drop of 400 feet before the parachute opens."

Cassell has been daily and nightly performing his wonderful feats at the Elks' carnival, Allegheny. Yesterday was the last day. It came very near being Cassell's last day on earth. It is his business to leave the earth, but yesterday he came near traveling to that bourne from which no balloonist returns in a parachute.

There was a large crowd at the Elks' yesterday afternoon when the professor got ready for his ascension. To see the balloon fill with hot air was an instruction to the people and they wanted to learn things. They saw the gauzy silk fill with the fumes which ascended from the hole in the ground, where countless barrel staves were burning; they saw the silken beauty float giddily aloft; they saw it soar skyward with the intrepid professor hanging on to the trapeze below the parachute, below the balloon. Recent discoveries made by illustrious men, fully equipped for the task, have given a rude shock to the conclusions of the mythological school on this point. The early history of Rome is now being vindicated by the pen of the scholar and the spade of the archaeologist.

The learned scholar mentions the sacred precincts where, near a small shrine, was dug out the slab covered with an inscription in letters of the most ancient Latin alphabet. Then follows a dissertation of Professor Gamurrini on the epigraphy of the monument. This scholar profoundly versed in Italian epigraphy, having thoroughly studied the writing finds a perfect similarity between this inscription and the one engraved on the Etruscan vase of Formello found in Vell. The latter inscription having already been deciphered, the Professor was enabled to read the former. Another member of the archaeological society, Giacomo Cortese, adds some information in regard to the nature of the monument, and pronounces it to be a fragment of the terminal law of Numa, one of the kings of Rome. Antonio Ceel, of the royal university, contributes a monogram on the inscription and reconstruction of this valuable relic. The eminent philologist makes a minute study of the words and compares them with the Oscan and Umbrian dialects, and with other languages of the Indo-Germanic group. By means of this comparative method, raised now to the importance of a scientific system, he also determines the sense of the inscription. The stone has been seen again, perhaps, after the lapse of 229 years; probably it was broken during the Gallic invasion, three hundred years before Christ, and buried under the ruins of the burned city. In fact there are words and expressions on it entirely new, and were unknown to Varo, Verrini Flaccus and to other ancient investigators of Roman antiquities. All agree in the conclusion that the relic belongs to the regal period and contains a decree of the "jus sacrum" or sacred law. With the concise style peculiar to the age the legislator prescribes the time and place for holding certain sacrificial rites and the kind of victims to be offered. Therein are mentioned the names of two sacerdotal dignitaries, the "Rex sacrificulus," a high pontiff, and the "Rex calator," designating a minor rank.

This monument, illustrated by the best authorities among Italian scholars, has been placed in the national museum. No one doubts that the historic-archeological value of its precious slab, and the meaning of its archaic inscription will provoke a spirited discussion among the followers of opposite schools. For from fearing or avoiding it the champions of old traditions are ready to enter the lists in defense

D. HUNT & SON.

An Honest Sale of Clothing.

On account of so many firms resorting to the scheme of saying they are selling out and never doing it, has caused the people to lose confidence in such sales, and who can blame them? (This is one reason we call this an honest sale). We inaugurated a system two or three years ago of selling out all our surplus stock once or twice a year, as the occasion demanded, and find while we lose quite a neat sum of money for a while, it pays us, in the end, to do it, for it keeps our stock ever fresh and clean. No old stock for us. We know by the result of our business career during the last few years that the people have not lost confidence in our sales, for they increase in volume each succeeding one. This honest sale of the best Clothing will commence the first day of August and continue during the month.

The Bee Hive

The Best 50c. Linen Skirt at 39c.

You have often paid 50c. for a skirt not the equal of these. We have known them to sell elsewhere for 75c. They are made of heavy linen and have a full three and a half yard sweep. These skirts are not "skimped." They have a "hang" about 'em that shows they were built by makers of well-fitting skirts. Merely to avoid summer dullness, we've marked 'em 39c. A regular $1.50 White Pique Skirt is marked 98c.

Newly-Arrived 15c. Lawns Are Now 10c.

Your advantage in having our buyers visit New York City is well shown in this newly-arrived lot of Lawns. They come in dainty Dimities, exquisite corded Mulls and Muslinettes. The patterns are the very latest shown in the Eastern markets. Your saving is just 5c. a yard, for they're marked 10c. instead of 15c. Those 10 cent Lawns at 6c. are selling like the proverbial hot cake. You had better come quickly.

Great Bargain in Ladies' Night Gowns.

This was a most fortunate purchase, indeed. These Gowns were made to sell at 75c. There were just thirty dozen. We took them all at a price which, with a small profit, sells them to you at 49c. They are made of soft, sheer Cambric and trimmed with superb Swiss embroidery and insertion. Do you need a gown? Here's one to your great saving at 49c.

MR. D. HECHINGER.

His Friends Are Legion and They Rejoice
To Know He Is To Continue in Business Here.

The announcement a few months ago of Mr. D. Hechinger's intention to retire from the clothing business in Maysville was received with genuine regret by his legion of friends throughout all this section.

The conditions at that time prompted him to take the step, and no announcement was ever made in better faith.

However, "conditions change and men change with them." That is an old saying, and it is exemplified in this case. Yielding to the persuasions of his host of friends and patrons and acceding to the desire of his fellow merchants to have him remain with them in active commercial pursuits, Mr. Hechinger has reconsidered his former decision and will continue the business which he founded in Maysville nearly forty years ago, and which he has conducted so long and so honorably.

Mr. Hechinger is one of Maysville's most public-spirited citizens, ever ready to lend a helping hand where the welfare of the city is at stake, and his friends everywhere and the community in general rejoice to know he is to continue in business here.

A HEADQUARTERS detective is investigating a case which is not only peculiar but pathetic. The story was reported by Miss Kittle Turner, the charming young daughter of George W. Turner, deceased. At the time of his death Mr. Turner held the position of assistant city chemist. He overworked himself during the recent smallpox epidemic and finally contracted a cold, which resulted in his death. Naturally his death was a great shock to his widow. Some two years ago Mrs. Turner gave a tintype photograph of her husband to one of those "photo enlarging" companies. It was the best picture she had of her husband. When she received the enlarged picture she was satisfied with it and returned it. Since then she has been trying to secure the tintype without avail. It was not until after her husband's death that she made a decided effort to recover the tintype, but the company paid no attention to her repeated requests. She wants the police to aid her in recovering the picture.

The above is taken from the Cincinnati Times-Star, and is verified every few days at our Studio. Moral: Don't give your orders to agents. Leave them at CADY'S ART STUDIO, where the original picture will be safe and the enlarged picture will please you.

GRIFFINS WERE ABSENT.

Preliminary Hearing of the Defendants
Paused Off Peacefully.

After bearing a half dozen or more witnesses, the court dismissed the defendants. The Phillipots then asked that Green Gibbs be summoned to answer for killing Ed Fisher, but the judge said Gibbs was not able to come into court. They adjourned. Great relief was expressed at the non-appearance of the Griffins.

The United States ambassador, Mr. Joseph H. Choate, forwarded to Washington important detailed dispatches embodying Canada's position with reference to the Lynn canal strip. Sir Julian Pauncefort's return, it is expected, will advance matters, owing to his knowledge of both the American and Canadian positions.

"MORE haste, less speed," and "hasten slowly," are proverbs born of experience that some things can't be hurried without loss and waste. That is especially true of eating. The railway lunch habit, "five minutes for refreshments," is a habit most disastrous to the health. You may hurry your eating. You can't hurry your digestion, and the neglect to allow proper time for this important function is the beginning of sorrows to many a busy man. When the tongue is foul, the head aches, when there are sour or bitter risings, undutifulness after eating, hot flushes, irritability, nervousness, irresolution, cold extremities, and other annoying symptoms, be sure the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition have "broken down." Nothing will re-establish them in active health operation so quickly as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It strengthens the stomach, nourishes the nerves, purifies the blood, and builds up the body. It is a strictly temperance medicine containing no alcohol or other intoxicant.

Given away. Dr. Pierce's great work, The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamp to pay expense of mailing only. Send 21 one-cent stamps for the paper covered over, or 31 stamps for cloth binding, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

An Incredulous Jury.

In a criminal prosecution recently tried in York, Neb., the jury, after a brief deliberation, returned the following remarkable verdict: "We, the jury in the above named case, do not believe one word that the witnesses have sworn to; neither do we believe that any of the attorneys have spoken the truth, nor that either of them could do so even if he should care to take the trouble to try." The humor in remarks casting doubt upon the veracity of the legal profession has lost the freshness of early youth, and a good, stiff penalty for contempt in cases of this kind would probably reward to the benefit of mankind in general.—Law Notes.

Pears Case.

Washington, July 25.—United States Minister Hunter has secured from the government of Honduras a full report of the circumstances attending the killing of young Pears last spring, which has been made the subject of a claim for indemnity by the United States. The report will form the basis of speedy diplomatic action.
